"The Evening World" Finds Many Cases in Which Illegal Papers Were Secured.

"The Evening World's" exposure of the manner in which Italian padrones have been fraudulently obtaining naturalization papers for aliens from the courts in New York and Kings Counties has demonstrated the urgent need for stringent amendments to the Naturalization laws.

Naturalization Bureaus of this city and Brooklyn, and into the antecedents and alleged residences of the applicants for papers, would certainly disclose the tremendous extent to which these frauds upon citizenship have been practised, and make possible the arrest and punishment of the parties to the frauds as from a School in Paris.

Edward Webster, the eighteen-year-old son of Mrs. Theodore Conkling, who disappeared from school in Paris Jan. 10 last, was this morning reported back at his home in West Fifty-sixth street, this city. Young Webster, who is six feet two inches tall, and is in appearance and demeanor far older than his years, left the St. Lazare Station at Paris on a train bound for Colombes, where he intended visiting some relatives. He was not seen after that, and was believed to have been murdered and his body thrown have been murdered and his body thrown into the Seine.

This theory was lent color to by the discovery of a headless body in the Seine two weeks ago, which tallied in height and proportions with that of the missing boy.

Mrs. Conkling, the boy's mother, cabled a $5,000 reward for any clue leading to her son's recovery. She also left for Paris to personally lead an investigation.

for Paris to personally lead an investigation.

Nothing definite was learned of the affair after that until last Sunday, when Mr. Conkling arrived on the French steamship La Touraine, accompanied by Edward.

Much mystery surrounds his disappearance. He claims to have taken "French leave" because he disliked the Pensionnat Notre Dame du Sacre Coeur, where he went to school.

His appearance is much altered, and his hair is said to be tinged with grey. Edward is the son of John P. Webster, who, at the time of his death, five years ago, was a prominent member of the Produce Exchange. His will bequeathed $400,000 to Eddie.

Two weeks ago to-day city who have been issuing papers to persons vouched for by the padrones or by their false witnesses, the courts have no option but to accept as true the sworn statements of the applicants and their witnesses. The courts apparently have no authority—or, if they have, it is not mandatory—to investigate outside of the courts the allegations made in support of applications for citizenship.

Owing to this condition of affairs it is possible to hoodwink the examining judges and to perpetrate gross frauds upon the courts and flagrant violations of law with at least an assurance of immunity from punishment.

As an illustration it may be cited that the naturalization paper issued cot, 24, 1893, in the Court of Common Pleas, to some one representing himself to be Domenico Mareno was issued upon an affidavit setting forth that the residence of the applicant was at a certain number in a certain street. While the Senate Finance Committee and the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means at Albany are conducting the with the Cataract General Electric Company it might be well for them to endeavor to discover if the "Hudson River Transportation Company" is not one of the jobs of this monster monopoly.

It might also be well for the Committees to learn from Senator Donaldsor what he meant by introducing such a scandalous bill into the Legislature. In cidentally it would not be a bad idea to find out who is back of Senator Donaldson and the alleged authors of this bench and announced that he was ready to proceed.

The belief is strong that the Niagara Company lobby was behind the job. That is the best explanation of the faffair. The Niagara Company, by reason of the contract to which Gov. Flower was a party, already controlled the canals, but an entrance to New York was denied to it. The Hudson River Transportation job lifted the gates and placed the Empire City as well as the Empire State at the mercy of the great monopoly.

Mr. Shepard, in moving for sentence, read a long statement, in which he stated that very important information had been given to the prosecution by the inspectors who had pleaded guilty.

This information had shown beyond a doubt that they had all been terrorised by McKane, who had taken advantage of their poverty to compel them to obey his orders.

They all admitted they had been ordered by him to conceal the registration lists, and that he directed and carried out the conspiracy, with the assistance of Newton and Sutherland, to prevent Mr. Gaynor's men from copying the Graves end registration lists.

Mr. Shepard said if the prosecution knew at the time of McKane's trial what is now known a much heavier sentences would have been demanded for McKane. He also said that the prosecution would not have allowed Newton to plead to a mere misdemeanor either, as he could have been convicted of a felony.

He added that in consideration of the clemency that would be shown to these inspectors they had all given promises to testify when needed by the prosecution in any further cases against the Gravesend offenders.

In the interest of public justice, he said, the prosecution could not make any public statement at the present lime in regard to the information given by the inspectors.

He counsel for the prisoners themselves.

He was, therefore, in a position to distinguish one man's case from another, and to limpose such sease resemd to merit.
